

East Africa Account Executive – Nairobi

COMPANY OVERVIEW

Imagine needing a medication to treat a curable disease or wanting to buy a product at a store only to find that the item is completely stocked out. Even worse, this store has no idea when they will be restocked since their data is not integrated in any way with their suppliers.

Reliefwatch is a platform specifically designed for organizations in the developing world to track inventory stock levels and other last-mile data through basic mobile phones. As part of a suite of systems, along with Sokowatch (consumer goods) and Acrewatch (agriculture), Reliefwatch helps reduce stock-outs and minimize expirations of essential supplies across the developing world.
